Maribeth and Charlie Thomas

Becoming a Cynthiana institution

Chamber Business Persons of the Year

By JOSH SHEPHERD, NEWS WRITER

An interesting fact about the 26-year history of Leono's Pizza younger people may not know: Charlie and Maribeth Thomas owned restaurants bearing the Leono's name in Paris and Georgetown before the signature restaurant in Cynthiana existed.

When the opportunity to take over the Pizza Place of Cynthiana in the old white building near Church Street presented itself, the Thomases soon realized that they were stretched thinner than they cared to be.

They decided to change strategy and re-focus their energies on one community — Cynthiana.

It was never obvious at the time, but in making that decision, the Thomases created something far more than a restaurant.

Leono's is as much a part of Cynthiana's cultural and business identity as Biancke's Restaurant, Bullard's safety equipment or even 3M's ubiquitous Post-It Notes.

Nowhere is that conclusion more evident than when teacher and local business owner Roger Slade explained the reasons why Leono's owners were being recognized as the Cynthiana-Harrison County Chamber of Commerce Business People of the Year.

"In every small community, there is that place where everyone goes. Where the kids hang out after school and on weekends. For Cynthiana, that place is Leono's," Slade said.

After 26 years in business, Charlie and Maribeth have often been asked to recount Leono's success story for feature stories, presentations and even in conversations with friends and business colleagues. A question posed frequently to them is the following: Why Cynthiana over Paris or Georgetown?

Maribeth doesn't hesitate in her answer.

The difference between Cynthiana and the other two communities is its sense of identity apart from Lexington, she said.

"Being roughly 10 miles further from Lexington than either Paris or Georgetown makes all the difference, I guess. We are part of Cynthiana rather than being just 'greater Lexington' and we like that," Maribeth said.

Charlie nods in agreement.

Runner charged with assault of officer

By BECKY BARNES, EDITOR

A Harrison County man remains in jail after being charged with assault of a police officer.

Christopher Combs, 29, was arrested Thursday night after police were called to a fight on Fourth Street.

According to Ptl. Joe Warden of the Cynthiana Police Department, Combs was one of the parties involved in the fight.

When Warden advised Combs that he had an outstanding warrant from a Fayette County indictment, Combs jumped from the porch and began running from the area.

Warden also jumped from the porch, twisting his ankle in the process.

Combs was spotted running toward Fifth Street, which is where Assistant Chief William Denton joined the foot chase.

Denton jumped a fence and caught Combs at Evergreen Circle.

"He got maybe 100 yards," Warden said of Combs' attempt to flee.

Combs was taken to Harrison Memorial Hospital because he got sick from running, Warden said.

Warden was also treated for a sprained ankle.

Combs was charged with third degree assault of a police officer, second degree fleeing on foot and served two warrants for receiving stolen property under $10,000 and persistent felony offender.

As of Tuesday, Combs remained at the Bourbon County Detention Center.

Autism Awareness Month

It's ok to be different

Paul Coy is 11 years old. He can tell you every county in Kentucky and its county seat. He knows every state in the United States and the state capitals.

Impressed? That's not all the Eastside Elementary fourth grader can offer with nothing more than the right question.

Who drives all of the school buses that drop off children at Eastside school?

Paul knows.

He even knows what bus his now 4-year-old sister will ride next year when she goes to kindergarten at Westside Elementary.

He can name all seven of the books in the Diary of a Wimpy Kid series and has read each one more than once.

Paul, who is the son of Kara Gildersleeve and Joey Coy, is an amazing reader and has been doing so since he was 3 years old, according to one of his Eastside teachers, Tracy Quinn.

"I don't know that it had a great deal of meaning then, but now it does," she said.

Paul is autistic and has become quite the celebrity in Harrison County. He will appear on the school district's website in an interview where questions and answers were scripted.

Ask him a similar question as to one asked in that interview and he will attempt to repeat his earlier answer. However, even if he didn't have the previous script, Paul would tell you about autism.

"It's something you're born with," he said. "You don't catch it like the flu."

According to autismspeaks.org, one in 68 children are born with autism. One out of 42 are boys.

Paul likes music, but he will quickly explain that he likes to listen to music, not sing or play an instrument.

His favorite thing about school? That would have to be getting to study the Atlas with a magnifying glass.

But he is also a big fan of PE.

"Coach (Nick) Hill is the best coach of all," Paul said with all sincerity.

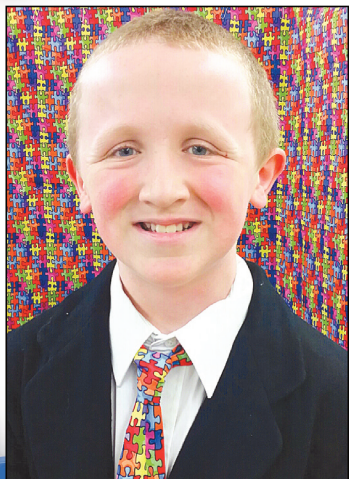

Ashley Peak, who also teaches Paul at Eastside, said he is a good resource. He knows every teacher and the teachers' room numbers. So when they need to contact another teacher, Paul is the go-to for that information.

Paul is also a fount of information that neither teacher questions.

Quinn said she used to Google things when Paul would tell her, but she said he was always right. Now they just take him at his word.

When Paul is at home, his likes are pretty much the same as any other 11-year-old boy. He likes playing video

Rohs presents hit comedy on last April weekend

By JOSH SHEPHERD, News Writer
James Smith, director of the upcoming new comedy at Rohs Opera House, invites everyone to meet the Turpins, a family that's barely holding it together. A family so dysfunctional, it's laugh-out-loud funny.

Dearly Departed, presented by the Rohs Theater Company, was a smash 1991 off-Broadway comedy from writers David Bottrell and Jessie Jones. The script was adapted into a movie called Kingdom Come starring Whoopie Goldberg.

Trying to describe the play, Smith admits that the plot sounds more like drama than comedy, but the situations are played out in a manner that families can identify.

When the family patriarch, Bud Turpin, keels over minutes into the first act, it's up to the rest of the Turpin family, along with their bizarre group of neighbors and friends, to organize a funeral and get the old codger buried.

His barely grieving widow, Raynelle, suggests that "Mean and Surly" be etched into Bud's gravestone while his sister, Delightful, grieves by consuming every morsel of food she can find, and Aunt Marguerite tries to save everyone for the Lord.

Meanwhile the rest of the family deals, or chooses not to deal, with the escalating costs of the funeral and just trying to get along with each other.

The cast includes most of the Rohs company regulars, Smith said.

Dearly Departed is a special bonus production for fans of Harrison County's community theater productions.

"When we [Rohs Theater Company and harriCYN Community Theater] got together in January to plan out the schedule for the opera house, we noticed that there was a gap in April," Smith said.

Years before a friend of Smith's had suggested that Dearly Departed would be a great play to perform in this area, so the Rohs company decided to run with it.

Putting Dearly Departed together has been quite an experience, Smith said. The first read through of the script, everyone thought it was funny.

But each time through, the actors are discovering new things to enhance the comedy, he said.

"Every rehearsal, I think we're finding more of the comedy in the script," he said.

The cast includes Deana Wiglesworth as Raynelle Turpin; Roger Slade as Ray Bud; Jennifer Arnold as Lucille; Greg Shirley as Junior; Lisa Ridenour as Suzanne, Davye Hisle as Delightful; Shelley Slade as Aunt Marguerite; Phillip Nickerson as Royce; Debbie Schmidt as Veda; Bob Laytart as Uncle Norval (and the late Bud Turpin); Megan Ritchie as Nadine; Mike Bess as Clyde; and Brian Canupp as Reverend Hooker. Joining Canupp are a number of children who make up the hilarious "Joy of Life Singers."

Tickets for the show are on sale now at Biancke's Restaurant at $10 each. The show is scheduled for Friday and Saturday, April 25 and 26, at 7:30 p.m. and on Sunday afternoon, April 27, at 2 p.m.

Patrons who have become "Friends of the Rohs" will be treated to an advance showing on Friday, April 18. Those lucky few will have a chance to enjoy the show before anyone else, Smith said.

That's the Rohs' way of showing appreciation for the community support of the theater, Smith said games and basketball. He's not modest at all about his talent. He said, quite frankly, that he is good at both.

He likes television and knows when his favorite shows air and on what channel.

Because the children in Quinn's and Peak's class are integrated with other students at Eastside, Paul has formed many friendships that he treasures.

He said his friends will sometimes be doing their work and he will sit with them or even use the magnifying glass to learn more from the Atlas.

April is Autism Awareness Month.

Quinn and Peak have established a library of sorts to provide information about autism to those who want to know more.

The pair have attended cadre meetings in Lexington for four years to learn and share more about autism.

"It has been so worthwhile," said Quinn. "We were thrilled and have been able to get some wonderful information."

Some beneficial websites for information about autism are: www.autismspeaks.org www.cec.org www.katc.org www.autism-society.org

"We are highlighting differences in order to promote awareness, gain understanding and increase acceptance among all people," Quinn said.

Leono's

Interestingly, Charlie said that the decision to focus on Cynthiana was not a big business risk.

He worked with Bob Ammerman to start the Pizza Place of Cynthiana before embarking on building his family-owned business.

"The foundation for a pizza restaurant at that location was already established when we took over. We kept our eye on the basics. Make a good product, be consistent, and practice excellent customer service," Charlie said.

Still, they made their decision without the use of market research or demographic studies or all the other academic elements of business development.

There was only one factor in their decision: Cynthiana was their home. And there has never been a moment in which they doubted that they made the right decision.

"Harrison County was having their prom and several of the kids came to have pizza at our old place after the dance. Though it was closing time, I told them they didn't need leave. The students asked us if they could move the tables and dance on the open floor.

"We gave them a place where they felt comfortable to have a post-prom party. We were a home to them," Maribeth said.

There was only one genuine crossroads moment for them — the decision to relocate and build a new place in the empty lot where the old LeBus Tobacco Warehouse stood in downtown Cynthiana.

The Thomases have related the story many times over. It was a moment of personal reflection and prayer.

"We have leaned on our faith to guide us through our hardest decisions. And in this instance especially, God showed us that our journey with Leono's should continue," Maribeth said.

Time and again, circumstances and personal experiences have reinforced their faith in that decision.

Former employees, mere high school students when they worked at Leono's, make a point to stop by the restaurant while visiting families during the holidays.

"We have seen so many kids grow up while we have worked here," Maribeth said.

Local customers who spend their winters in Florida stop for their Leono's 'fix' before even going home to unpack, Maribeth said.

It is in these instances that the true rewards of running a beloved institution reveal themselves.

Leono's has not only made a good living for Charlie and Maribeth Thomas, it has given them a good life.

Developing a new vision for Cynthiana

After a month of hearing updates on the progress of the courthouse renovation, curiosity finally got the best of me and I walked inside the building just to, you know, see what was going on.

Of course, I made sure to check with Trace Creek workers just to make sure my presence wasn't going to cause them any major safety concerns.

But as I said, I was curious. Not that I'm any kind of judge of building renovation. One of the reasons I spend my professional life at a computer is because I don't know the difference between a U-bolt and a saddle stitch.

Nevertheless, touring the courthouse in its current state was an interesting experience, particularly in the contrast between the new wall framing going up against the old stained-wood frames surrounding the entrance doors and windows.

There seems to be quite a bit of care taken to protect those frames. Granted, those frames were designed to handle a lot of wear.

Readers may recall in the fiscal court story last week that the Kentucky Heritage Council has dangled a seemingly enticing carrot before the magistrates: $150,000 in potential tax credits for making some modest alterations to the renovation that would preserve and highlight aspects of the courthouse's unique historic features.

If their proposal can save some costs on the project, then making that decision is a no-brainer. It will be a great example of striking a balance between preserving aspects of our local heritage while simultaneously moving us forward.

On Tuesday night, April 29, at the Harrison County Extension Office,

Josh Shepherd
News Writer

our new Mainstreet Program coordinator, Emily Ammerman, is going to try and accomplish something similar, but on a much grander scale.

She is inviting business leaders and property owners, among other key stakeholders, to participate in an important process: a focus group that kickstarts the development of a new vision and direction for Cynthiana.

Since coming here, I have heard many concerns and opinions raised about the direction in which this community is going.

I wish this was something that could happen overnight. But it takes time to build a vision, especially when that vision attempts to satisfy too many self-interests.

I hope there's a good turnout for this focus group. I have no doubt that the economic pendulum is swinging toward the bullish side soon. We need a shared idea of how Cynthiana will take advantage of it. And stick with it.

Church Street couple are Cubs fans to the core

By JOSH SHEPHERD, NEWS WRITER

The four unmistakable signs of spring time in Cynthiana, Kentucky: The Cynthiana Democrat's Home and Garden Show, the opening of the Farmer's Market at Flat Run Veterans' Park, dogwoods and tulips in full bloom, and the annual unfurling of the Chicago Cubs flags in the front yard of Jamie and Karan Russell's home.

The Kentucky Wildcats can boast all they want about the national appeal of the Big Blue Nation in NCAA basketball. In the world of major league baseball, at least as far as the Russells are concerned, there is only the Chicago Cubs. And they are as mad for the Cubs' season-opening game as Wildcats' fans are for Midnight Madness.

Any other time of the year, the Russells' home is just as quietly dignified as any other family dwelling on Church Street. But on opening day, the Cub's signature blue and red colors blossom all around the yard, along with images of the baseball team's famous logo.

Pinstriped cards featuring the numbers and names of past Cubs' hall of famers line the sidewalk leading to their front door.

In honor of Wrigley Field's 100th anniversary celebration this year, the Russells had an image of the ballpark's famous sign custom-painted to the rear window of their car.

Now, if they were just Chicago area residents, the level of the Russell's Cubs fandom would barely register. They'd still be considered die-hards, but they'd hardly be alone. Anyone who has visited Wrigley Field for a Cubs' home game knows the extent to which the fans will express themselves.

But when fans live six hours south of the corner of W. Addison and N. Clark Streets, the Russell's home is a Wrigleyville oasis that adds a unique note to their block in downtown Cynthiana.

The decorations don't fail to make an impression on passers-by, especially those who are unfamiliar with the passion of the Cubs' fanbase.

A WRIGLEYVILLE OASIS IN CYNTHIANA — Jamie and Karan Russell's home on Church Street is a tasteful combination of family home and neatly organized displays of really awesome Chicago Cubs fan collectables and memorabilia.

"Jamie had some friends who didn't know that we were such huge Cubs fans. They were coming to our house and the woman saw our decorations and said, 'now that's tacky.' I quickly owned up to them and said I aspire for the tastefully tacky," Karan said.

Karan can't help it. She and her husband love their Cubs.

"We have Braves' fans in the neighborhood who threaten to sneak little tomahawks onto our lawn. Our friends who are Reds fans tease us every year we fall short in the playoffs. But someday..." Karan said with a prayerful gesture to the baseball gods.

Karan introduced her husband to the pleasures of wearing the red and blue.

She grew up in Rockford, Ill., which is still about two hours away from Chicago. Her family got cable television in 1980, that ancient time when there weren't 500 stations on the box.

When it came to baseball, there was the so-called "America's Team" on that Atlanta station, but Karan and her dad preferred to watch the Cubs on WGN.

That was the beginning of the one relationship that has lasted longer than her marriage. In fact, Karan said, she and Jamie planned their honeymoon vacation around Cubs games.

Just as some Kentucky boys realize that marrying a young girl meant marrying into her family, Jamie knew soon after he'd met Karan that the Cubs were going to be a part of his wedding vows.

He's never regretted accepting the Cubs into his life, although early on he still had some learning to do about being a fan.

His first lesson came before they were even married.

"He [Jamie] suggested we just take off for Chicago one morning for a game. This was before we had kids, so we could do things like that. Or at least he thought so. I kept saying it wasn't a good idea. But next thing I know, we were arriving at Wrigley Field at 3:15 in the afternoon," she said.

Unfortunately, the game was sold out and scalper tickets were just out of their range.

They managed to make the best of it, Karan said, but from then on, they've made sure to get tickets before taking off to a game.

"I wasn't all that into sports when we first met. But I keep up with them in my own way now," Jamie said.

For Jamie, that means not only traveling to Cubs games, but also taking in games with the minor league affiliates like the Tennessee Smokies and the Daytona Cubs.

For the family, vacation planning often centers around Cubs games, even if their trips are to destinations down south to Georgia or Florida.

Their kids, Westin and Miranda, have shared the Cubs experience with their parents, but have not yet acquired the same level of appreciation for the team.

"We once asked Westin where he wanted to take a family vacation and he said anywhere where there wasn't a ballpark nearby," Jamie said.

The Russells acknowledge, grudgingly, that there exists a rival fanbase for some New York team. They have even heard rumor of another professional baseball team out of Chicago's southside.

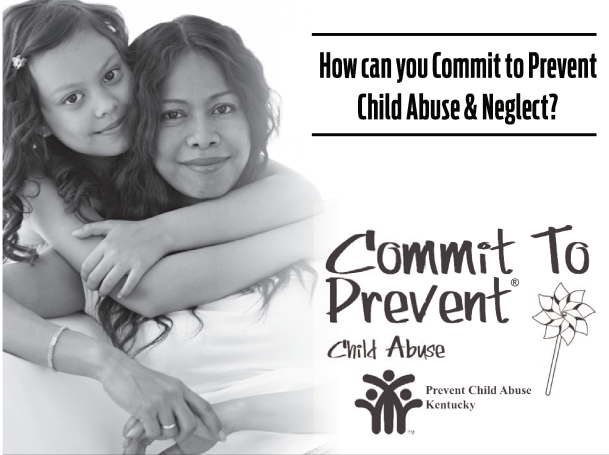

But the Cubs rule their household. And just as the spring season brings about all kinds of re-birth, so too do the Russells' hopes, along with countless other fans across this country, that this year will be the year the Cubs make the Series.

Maybe they'll even win it!

After all, it's gotta happen sometime.

Woman's Club holds April luncheon

The Woman's Club of Harrison County met on Friday, April 11 for its monthly luncheon. The meeting was held in the community room at Hospice of the Bluegrass. Anna Ruth McLoney, club president, welcomed members and guests then led everyone in the Pledge of Allegiance.

The luncheon was catered by Layne Tussey. Bonnie Teater offered the blessing of the meal.

McLoney shared Spiritual Values reading from Growing Older - Getting Wiser." Be open to God's wisdom, take a leap of faith, enrich your spirit by traveling even if it is just to look out the window or go to your front door, extend goodness, kindness and compassion into the world" are some of the topics she shared from the book.

Teater introduced musical guest Mitchel Judy. He was accompanied by Lottie Barlow who played the piano. Judy sang several tunes including Ain't She Sweet, My Buddy, There Is No Secret What God Can Do and Your Grace Still Amazes Me. Judy retired from Harrison RECC and now works part time at Ware Funeral Home. He also performs with the Licking Valley Singers.

Cheryl Case introduced guest speaker, Amber Philpot. Philpot is the co-anchor for the WKYT Evening News. Her speech was titled "Behind the Scenes, Glamorous or Not?" She presented a Powerpoint photo slide show while giving us insight into what goes on behind the camera and what it takes to get the news on the air.

Philpot was born and raised in Harrison County and is a graduate of Morehead State University where she majored in Communications. She began her career at WYMT in Hazard as a news producer and reporter for the morning newscast. In 2004, Philpot was given the opportunity to report and anchor the 11 p.m. newscast at WKYT in Lexington. She eventually became co-anchor for the 5, 5:30, 6 and 11 p.m. newscasts. In 2009, she was nominated for a regional Emmy and was named best news anchor in Kentucky by the Associated Press.

Philpot is the daughter of Gary and Theresa Philpot and she is married to Cynthiana native Steve Hill. Theresa Philpot joined us for the luncheon as a guest of Bonnie Teater.

The monthly business meeting followed the program. Kaye McCauley read the minutes from the March meeting and Virgie Wells submitted the treasurer's report. After other items of business were discussed, McLoney called for a motion to adjourn. Motion was made by Sue Burrier.

The Woman's Club will meet again on May 9. A representative from the National Underground Railroad Freedom Center in Cincinnati, Ohio will be the featured speaker.

A SPECIAL BIRTHDAY. Loretta Jibb celebrated her 80th birthday with friends at Leono's on Sunday, April 13. In lieu of presents, guests brought non-perishable items which were donated to the Food Pantry. In this photo, Jibb is seen with but a small selection of the donations that were made to honor her birthday.

Civil War group looking for descendents

The Sgt. Elijah P. Marrs Camp No. 5, Sons of the Union Veterans of the Civil War, are searching for descendents of three Civil War veterans buried in the Old Union Cemetery just off Russell Cave Road in northeastern Fayette County.

The Civil War veteran's government supplied gravestones are in poor condition, and the camp is planning on restoring and re-dedicating them this summer.

"So many of our Civil War veterans have been forgotten. These men had families and were important to someone. We think that they deserve to be honored and remembered," said Phillip Seyfrit, Commander of the Lexington based Sons of the Union Veterans camp.

The soldiers buried in Old Union Cemetery are Thomas Brierly, Hudson Tevis and William Ivy. All were Union soldiers.

Seyfrit says that the camp, along with the cemetery's caretakers, hope to re-set, clean and then re-dedicate the markers. "Time has done a number on these stones. But with a little work, we can help their condition. They won't be new, but better than they are" added Seyfrit.

The Sgt. Elijah P. Marrs Camp No. 5, Sons of the Union Veterans was founded in 1999. Although they are headquartered in Lexington, their members encompass much of the central Kentucky region. The Sons of the Union Veterans of the Civil War is the legal descendant of the Grand Army of the Republic, a veteran's organization established just after the Civil War for Union soldiers.

If you have any information on these soldiers, are a descendant of one of them, or for more information contact Seyfrit at 859-624-0013.

Eric Tedder for Family Court Judge

Serving Harrison, Nicholas, Pendleton and Robertson Counties

I am married to Sunshine Tedder, for nearly 20 years. We have three children, Shelby, 13, Cameron, 10 and Reagan 7. I am the son of Harry Paul and Linda Shrout Tedder. My grandparents are Conway and Catherine Tedder and Dorothy and Glenn Kimberling. Sunshine is the daughter of John Hall and Boogie Hattton. John Hall served as a State Trooper in this area for many years. I grew up on the family farm in Nicholas County and spent many hours working in the fields. I graduated from Salon P. Chase College of Law in 2000. After graduation I worked in the legal department of Cinergy Corporation, handling a variety of legal matters including their collection and bankruptcy work. While attending law school and working at Cinergy I lived in Butler, Kentucky. Since 2004 I have been a solo practitioner in Nicholas and surrounding counties. My practice concentrates on Family Law issues. I have handled a variety of issues from the unique to the typical. I continue to represent my clients and work hard for their interests. I have encountered many issues facing today's families, not only professionally, but with my own children as well. Since 2005 I have served as Trial Commissioner for Nicholas County. A Trial Commissioner is appointed by the District Judge to assist him or her in their duties. The Kentucky Constitution requires a Trial Commissioner to be appointed for any county which does not have a District Judge residing therein. As Trial Commissioner I have had the opportunity and authority to conduct arraignments, set bonds, deal with probate matters as well as conduct temporary removal hearings, where a child or children may be in danger and the Cabinet For Health and Family Services has requested that the child or children be removed from their home. One month of every quarter I serve as the on-call Trial Commissioner for the entire District. I am member of the Locust Grove Baptist Church in Carlisle. I am involved in my children's school and extra-curricular activities. I volunteer as a Den Leader for the local Cub Scouts and have been a Den Leader for the last 5 years, I also additionally served as Cub Master for 3 of those years. SBDM parent elections will be April 28

Site Based Decision Making Council Parent Elections for the 2014-2015 school year will take place on Monday, April 28, 8 a.m.-7 p.m. in the HCHS front office. Any parent of a 2014-15 Harrison County High School student will be eligible to vote on this day. The legal definition of parent allows biological parents, stepparents, foster parents, or persons who have court-ordered legal custody to be nominated or to vote. According to the law, parents who are nominated or who wish to vote must have a child pre-registered to attend the school for next year. If a child is in Grade 8 this year and will attend HCHS in 2014-2015, the parents of that child would be eligible to be nominated, or vote in the SBDM Council election. Parents of 12th graders who are exiting our school may nominate but cannot vote for candidates.

Church

Easter season is for laughing

When I was a new Christian, I discovered a portrait of Jesus called the “Laughing Christ” at a Christian book store.

At the time I was attending a serious church, a church where the thought of Jesus laughing was most likely frowned on. Maybe Jesus smiled at babies and puppies, but telling jokes with his friends? God forbid.

Consequently, because the serious people at that serious church were so serious about their Christian faith, they presented Jesus as serious too. Serious equals somber and sober, which equals humorless and kinda mean.

Not that Jesus was mean, but some of his followers were.

So, when I saw the “Laughing Christ” portrait, I found it appealing and compelling, yet rather confusing. That wasn’t at all how I pictured Jesus.

At that church, we sang, “I’ve got the joy, joy, joy, joy down in my heart,” but frankly, that joy didn’t seem to generate much laughter. That joy was way, way, way, way down in our hearts.

There were some nice people at that church, but not too many who were fun to be around. Thankfully, we moved away after about a year and found friendlier churches.

Over the years, that image of Jesus laughing has stayed with me. I love the thought of the son of God throwing back his head in utter delight.

I believe that Easter is the reason Jesus laughed

Nancy Kennedy

and the reason Christians should be serious about laughing too.

A few years ago, I found an account of some 15th-century Bavarian monks. As they pondered the meaning of the somber events of holy week — Maundy Thursday’s observance of Christ’s Last Supper and his agony in the Garden of Gethsemane, his arrest and trial and then Good Friday’s remembrance of Christ’s brutal death on the Cross — one of the monks started laughing, and not just an amused twitter. This was a big belly laugh.

As the story goes, the monk told the other monks, “Don’t you see? The Resurrection was a joke — the best joke in all history. When Jesus died, the devil thought he had won. But God had the last laugh on Easter when he raised Jesus from the dead.”

The monks called it Risus Paschalis, “the Easter laugh.”

I love that! Jesus laughing, Bavarian monks laughing, Christians laughing.

We’ve got the “joy, joy, joy, joy down in our hearts,” or at least we should.

When I think of that serious church I had attended, I think about why the people may have seemed so grumpy. It’s just my speculation, but I think they took sin too lightly.

Well, they were very serious about the “world’s” sin and the sin of everyone else, but not so much their own. By that I mean they thought they could manage their own sin. They certainly had enough rules.

Back then, I thought I could manage my sin too, until I realized I couldn’t.

Years ago, I told a group of Lutheran women at their “Experience the Joy!” retreat: “Real joy is knowing the depth of your sin and the extent of your idolatry.” Because unless you know that even your smallest sin caused the death of Christ you’ll never be able to fully appreciate the greatness of God’s grace, demonstrated in the Cross and then the Resurrection. We can’t do anything about our sin — and that’s great news.

There’s a hymn that goes, “My sin, oh, the bliss of this glorious thought! My sin, not in part but the whole, is nailed to the cross and I bear it no more. Praise the Lord, praise the Lord, O my soul!”

Do you hear the laughter in that?

It’s found in knowing you’re forgiven everything, past, present and future. That should make you laugh.

The message of Good Friday is that Jesus suffered and died for our sin. His death was real and necessary, a death that we deserved to die. For that, we grieve. For that, we are grateful.

But the message of Easter is that Jesus didn’t stay dead. He simply threw off the grave clothes, got up and walked out of the tomb, alive and well.

Like the monk had said, Christ’s Resurrection was the great joke of God.

It’s as we sing: “No more let sin and sorrow grow nor thorns infest the ground; He comes to make His blessings flow far as the curse is found.”

Joy to the world, friends. It’s time to laugh.

Pray As Jesus Prayed

Now in the morning, having risen a long while before daylight, He went out and departed to a solitary place; and there He prayed. -- Mark 1:35

I am an early riser. I like to get started in my activities most mornings. That’s when I spend time in prayer. It seems that my mind is clear of distractions and appointments.

I am able to concentrate on the things that I need to talk to God about at that time. I have found that during those times in the morning, God speaks to me, too.

I’ve often thought that God must also be an early riser since our time is really refreshing together.

Even though I am a minister; I often think that my prayers are not worthy or not important enough because others have a lot on their minds and in their lives.

When I started my life of prayer I would say prayers that I heard from others, such as “God is good, God is great so we thank him for our food, Amen!” or “Now I lay me down to sleep...” as time went on I began to put in my personal touches to prayer and tried to be real and sincere.

While He was on the Earth, Jesus showed the disciples how to pray, teaching them to pray as He prayed, because they had asked Him to do so.

His life, including His prayer life, was an example to them and to us. Not only did He show them how to pray but also He taught them what to pray for.

The prayers of Jesus,

Earl Litman
Guest Columnist

CYNTHIANA FIRST CHURCH OF GOD

along with those of His disciples, helped the Kingdom of God to actually come about.

If you have a demanding job, that job will require all the energy you give it.

There will always be some reason that you can’t find time to pray. Satan, of course, is behind all those reasons not to pray, because when you pray you receive more power, and more power means he is in trouble.

There will always be turbulence when you fly from one level to a higher one.

The more you stay in prayer, the more the anointing stays on you. Prayer opens the door for breakthrough in your life and in the lives of those whom you touch.

So be like Jesus and pray as He prayed!

“Our Father, who art in Heaven, hallowed be thy name. Thy Kingdom come, thy will be done on earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our debts as we forgive our debtors. And lead us not into temptation but deliver us from evil, for thine is the Kingdom and the power and the glory forever. Amen!”

Harrison Memorial Hospital offers new online service for customers

On April 8, Harrison Memorial Hospital unveiled its interactive website portal called HMHmyhealth! This new resource, found on our HMH website, will empower patients and families to take a more active role in their health care by providing easy, secure access to their very own health information.

This health information will include laboratory and radiology results, discharge medications, a list of patient allergies, demographic information, histories of your medical visits, discharge/aftercare instructions and more.

In addition to monitoring their own information, parents and health-care proxies with authorized consent will appreciate the ability to access the records of those individuals for whom they manage care. With HMHmyhealth! patient portal, a person may designate a portal proxy to access his or her health information. The proxy will have online access and view all portions of the individual health record. In order to designate a proxy, an authorization form will need to be completed from the Health Information Department. You may contact the department at 859-235-3526.

Online scheduling conveniences include:

- Request and track hospital-based appointments online.
- Request appointments for specific timeframes.
- Receive email notification once an appointment is scheduled.

A central appointment page will display your list of scheduled, pending hospital appointments, where users can view appointment details and, if necessary, reschedule appointments.

In addition, HMH will offer electronic payment in the near future. Patients will be able to access their billing statements and outstanding balances and, for even greater convenience, submit electronic payments via credit card at the click of a button.

All of the health information in the HMHmyhealth! portal comes from the individual's HMH electronic medical record. The individual and/or the designated proxy will be the only people to access the portal. All portal passwords are encrypted and URLs are rewritten so they cannot be copied and pasted. A time-out feature protects the information if the page is open longer than the allotted timeframe.

"Adding the HMHmyhealth! feature to our website is a tremendous convenience for our patients. It allows them to access their own health information any time of day," says Sheila Currans, HMH Chief Executive Officer. "We hope, by having access to their information, our patients will take an even more active role in their health. We believe patients who actively participate in their care become healthier individuals."

Patients interested in enrolling in HMHmyhealth! should contact the Health Information Department at 859-235-3526 or stop by the office located at HMH. After enrolling through the department, you may access the HMHmyhealth! through the HMH website at harrisonmemhosp.com/myhealth.

HMH encourages all of its patients to enroll in HMHmyhealth! as it presents a valuable opportunity for patients and their families to actively participate in their care, which contributes to better health.

Fillies spank Fleming County 10-3 Monday for 6th straight win

By Mike Aldridge, Sports Writer

After a slow start to the season the Harrison County Fillies won their sixth straight game Monday with a come-from-behind win over Fleming County.

The Fillies spotted the Lady Panthers two runs in the second inning. They answered by scoring five times in the fourth inning and again in the sixth for the 10-3 win.

Fleming County posted a single run in the seventh inning, but that was all they could muster.

Jami Davis pitched the seven inning contest for the Fillies. She gave up eight hits against three earned runs. Davis walked two and struck out seven Fleming County batters. The Fillies committed only one error in the game.

Tori Ishmael went the distance for Fleming County, giving up 14 hits to the Fillies and 10 earned runs. She walked two and struck out two in six innings of work.

Bailey Conley, Jami Davis, Sydney Motell, Macy Martin, Jima Hill, and Madison Coppage each had two hits for the Fillies. Martin had a triple and a double which drove in two runs. Conley had the other extra base hit for the Fillies as she doubled. She also had two RBIs.

Davis and Motell drove in two runs each for Harrison County. MaKayla Tucker scored twice for the Fillies as the Harrison County squad featured a balanced attack

Thorobreds drop third straight as South Laurel rolls 12-0

By Mike Aldridge, Sports Writer

Harrison County pitching walked seven, hit three batters and gave up nine hits in a 12-0 loss to South Laurel on Friday.

The Thorobreds also made four errors as they picked the wrong time to have a poor outing.

South Laurel came in with a 9-1 record and took control early scoring four times in the first and five more in the second inning.

Harrison County used seven pitchers with only Mark Taylor able to pitch effectively. The Cardinals' sophomore Braden Miller allowed just three hits and a walk in the complete game effort.

Robbie Stroub reached base all three at bats as he doubled and reached twice on errors. John King and CJ Claypool had the other Thorobreds' hits.

Third baseman Daniel Neal hit a long home run to left center for the Cardinals' biggest hit.

Harrison County's only threat to score came in the fourth when Stroub reached on an error and King walked. Claypool singled with two out but Miller got a strikeout to end the threat.

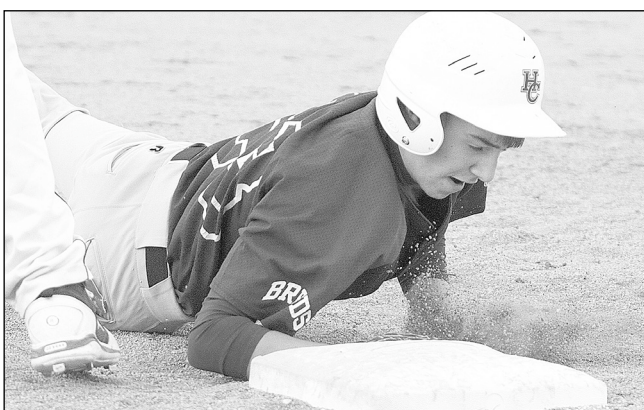

Harrison County dropped to 10-6 with the loss while South Laurel improved to 10-1.

Harrison County's scheduled game with Louisville Eastern was rained out on Monday so the next Thorobreds action will be in the Hometown Pharmacy/Frank Shoop Classic. On Thursday, the Breds face Conner of the 9th Region. Friday the Fleming County Panthers (5-6) of the 16th Region are the opponent.

Mason County (8-4) will visit for a region game on Monday on the Hilltop and Pendleton County (6-7) will play a district match up with the Thorobreds on Tuesday.

Coach Mac Whitaker goes into the Hometown Pharmacy/Frank Shoop Classic needing three wins to reach the 1,000 win mark.

Fillies win 3 times in Vernon Bibb Memorial, improve to 6-3-1

By Mike Aldridge, Sports Writer

The Harrison County Fillies continued their improvement over the weekend as they won all three of their games in the Vernon Bibb Memorial Showcase.

The eight-team round robin tournament featured George Rogers Clark, North Bullitt, Lexington Catholic, Montgomery County, Harrison County and the three Fillies opponents Boyd County, Whitesville Trinity and Grant County.

Harrison County's first game on Friday was against the 16th Region's Lady Lions of Boyd County. This game began rather ominously for the Fillies as Boyd County first baseman Kenzi Martin hit a two-run home run in the top of the first to give her team the early lead.

The Fillies, however, came right back in the bottom of the inning with a lead-off single by pitcher Bailey Conley, a sacrifice bunt by Jami Davis and an RBI double from Sydney Motell.

Fillies' catcher Courtney Newsome drew a walk and left fielder Shelby Ishmael singled home Motell to tie the score.

Harrison County took control in the third with two more runs when Davis walked, Motell and Ishmael singled and shortstop Macy Martin blasted a triple to score the runs.

Harrison County scored four more in the fourth for an 8-2 lead and added another run in the sixth to extend the lead.

Boyd County managed a run in the seventh but left a runner on as they came away with the 9-3 loss.

Conley, after the rocky start, allowed only four more hits and four walks and was able to work her way out of a couple of jams for the win.

Motell and Ishmael were perfect from the plate going four for four to lead the Fillies. The Track squads in two meets, hurdles strong event for Fillies, Breds

By Mike Aldridge, Sports Writer

The Harrison County Fillies and Thorobreds were able, for the first time all season, to compete in two meets in one week along with having a full week of practice.

They competed in a nine-team meet Tuesday, April 8, in Woodford County and came back Saturday for a huge meet in Lexington at Tates Creek.

The Fillies finished third in the Woodford County event with junior Kassidy Cook winning both the 100M hurdles and the high jump. Cook also took fourth place in the long jump.

Harrison County continues to excel in the hurdles with Coach Harold Barnett working with the athletes.

Caylin Mattox was second in the 100M hurdles and Haley Carr was third in Versailles on Tuesday.

The relays were also a strong point for the Fillies in this meet as they finished second in both the 800M relay (Mattox, Carr, Amelia Bolin, and Hannah Thomas) and the 400M relay with Mattox, Carr, Tarah Martin, and Thomas.

The 3200M relay team of Mary Levi, Kayla Joy, Martin and Bolin finished third.

Approaching storms caused the meet to be called with several events still to be held with Scott County the winner, Woodford County second and the Fillies third.

The Thorobreds continue to under perform as Harrison County standards go as they were sixth in the nine-team event.

Strongman Dominic Walker led the way with a first place in the discus and a fifth in the shot put.

Colton Burus was third in the 110M hurdles and the 3200M relay team of Shane Palmer, Cory Moore, Scott Moore and Grant Carr also finished third.

Many of the events that the Breds would have been competitive in were scratched due to the weather, which could have resulted in a better finish.

Anderson County won the meet followed by Scott County, Western Hills, Woodford County, Rowan County and the Thorobreds. Lexington Christian, Bourbon County and Franklin County rounded out the field.

The meet at Tates Creek had the look and feel of a state meet as teams such as Trinity and Newport Central Catholic joined the big Lexington schools to present some talented opposition for the Fillies and Thorobreds.

The Thorobreds were seventh in a 14-team field while the Fillies were ninth in a 13-team competition.

Cook again led the way for the Softball, early defections, and the Licking Valley Singers

Several things are crossing my mind tonight as I write this article.

The 91st birthday party for Brother Jimmy Rose, which was so well documented in last week's paper, had an error or two in it which is easy to understand due to the number of people in the life story of Bro. Rose and the different communities where he coached basketball.

Bro. (Coach) Rose was a 20-year-old coach at Olive Hill and also coached in Paris. His brother, Gayle, played for Adolph Rupp at the University of Kentucky, which makes both Rose brothers notable basketball figures in the Bluegrass.

It is really nice that so many of his former players take the time to come each year for his birthday.

The Licking Valley Singers completed another great performance Sunday afternoon at the Cynthiana Baptist Church.

This was a greatest hits show of sorts with the singers, Music Director Karen Bear, and Accompanist Dr. Beth Laytart selecting their favorites from the previous five years' performances to sing for the full house in the church.

This was another in a series of tremendous outings by the final horn sounded on the college basketball season, the pundits and seers of basketball immediately began their conjectures on who would stay in school and who would commit to go to the professional ranks.

This has grown tiresome for me as each year since the arrival of the current basketball coach, the University of Kentucky is embroiled in the midst of the speculation.

Should Randle leave? How about the Harrison twins, didn't they improve late in the season?

Young may leave. What about Cauley-Stein's injury, can he still leave this year?

All of this and much more fill the daily newspaper along with the serious problem of what nickname to give this year's team.

All of this speculation every season has got to grow old to the Wildcat fans as well.

Wouldn't it be nice to focus one time on who is coming back instead of who is leaving and see what an experienced team would Singers, which was well worth the cost of admission.

"How is this a sport one might ask?"

If you were there and saw the movement of the singers you wouldn't have to query at all.

As soon as the

be like for a change.

I fully realize that this year's season ended in the final game and that they played very well in the tournament.

Still with all of the good play they had to rely on last second shots how many times in a row to advance?

How good would a team be with a junior or a senior leader or two to settle the younger ones when the times got a little rough?

The blame for the one and done phenomenon falls on both the NCAA and the NBA for not working together to settle the issue.

The NBA should be like baseball and not allow a player to come from college until they would have been a junior.

This would benefit both the player in the cast majority of cases and the professional game.

Charles Barkley, who is wise about this issue, apologized to professional fans during coverage of one of the games for the lack of maturity and talent that had been on display in the first half of the game he was covering.

He placed the blame squarely on the NBA, but I believe that the NCAA is to blame as well.

If this organization could get the dollar signs out of its eyes for "One Shining Moment," it would see that the play in the college version would also greatly improve.

Little League, Pony League to start Saturday

Recreation Director Darrell Baxter is announcing the Little League and the newly formed Pony League will both kick off the season on Saturday, April 19, at noon. Both leagues will play at River Road with the Pony League occupying the big "softball" field and the Little League playing in the two adjacent parks as usual. There are three Pony League teams called Maroon, Gold and White with 38 players signed up to date.

The Little League teams are now named after Major League Baseball teams such as the Cardinals, Red Sox and Rockies. Baxter has established a group of 35 sponsors who are paying the needed fees for baseball, soccer and other Recreation Department-sponsored sports. This sponsor group also takes care of uniforms and equipment needed to play the games.

According to Baxter, the 35 sponsors have been able to pay for what is needed to date but he would welcome other businesses or organizations that would be interested in being a sponsor.

Saturday's Little League games begin with the Red Sox and A's playing on Field 2 and the Twins and Reds matching up on Field 3 at noon.

The 2 p.m. match ups are the Pirates vs. the Reds on Field 2 and the Rays facing the Cardinals on Field 3. The final game of the day for the Little League begins at 4 p.m. on Field 2 when the Rockies play the Dodgers.

The kick off of the season for the two leagues promises to have the River Road Park buzzing with activity with all of the baseball being played Saturday. The concession stand will be fully stocked and ready to go to serve the needs of the players and spectators alike with the usual ball park fare.

Parks and Rec news briefs

Anyone interested in playing spring soccer should contact the Parks and Rec office at 234-7155 by April 19.

Spring soccer games will be played at Flat Run Veterans' Park.

loss left Boyd County with an 8-8 record. Third Region Whitesville Trinity brought a respectable 5-3 record into the Showcase but left with a 5-6 mark losing to George Rogers Clark by one run, Montgomery County 12-7 and to the Fillies 4-0. The Lady Raiders were held without a base runner for the first four innings by Conley and were able to only have two base runners for the game. Trinity did not have a runner past first base. The Fillies were not able to get to the Lady Raiders' hurler Howard until the second but when they did it was in a big way with a two-run home run by Haley Powers scoring Macy Martin who had singled.

Motell singled and scored in the third and Martin singled and scored on Jima Hill's base hit for the 4-0 verdict. The Fillies improved to 5-3-1 with this win. The third game for the Fillies was a 15-0 three-inning rout of the Lady Braves of Grant County. The only mystery here was how the Fillies played this team to a tie earlier in the season. Harrison County batted 12 batters in the first inning scoring eight times. Starting and winning Fillies' pitcher, Jami Davis, allowed only one hit and one walk in the three-inning game. The first inning run scoring began when the first three Harrison County batters walked and Courtney Newsome tripled to clear the bases.

Newsome scored on Jima Hill's single and Hill along with MaKayla Tucker scored on an error on Conley's grounder. Conley scored her second run of the inning when Davis doubled. Five singles and a Haley Powers' triple plated six more in the second inning and the Fillies ended the game in the third when Hill and Tucker hit back-to-back doubles. Grant County went home with a 0-9-1 record while the Fillies are 6-3-1. "It was really good to hit the ball the way we did in this tournament," said Coach Christine Garnett. "Bailey and Jami both pitched well as well. Pitching and hitting combined with error free ball the last couple of games is really encouraging all of us."

The driver said the door came open during the wreck and he fell in the creek. A check revealed that the driver's license was suspended since January. Charges have been filed.

April 3 -- A non-injury accident occurred at 4:45 p.m. on KY 36 E three miles outside of town. Hospice of the Bluegrass receives prestigious award

For the second year in a row, Hospice of the Bluegrass – Cynthiana has been named a 2014 Hospice Honors recipient, a prestigious award recognizing hospices providing the best patient care as rated by the patient's caregiver.

Established by Deyta, this prestigious annual honor recognizes hospices that continuously provide the highest level of satisfaction through their care as measured from the caregiver's point of view.

"We are thrilled to present Hospice Honors for the second year in a row. We are honored to serve such a dedicated industry, and we look forward to recognizing top performers each year for their hard work and dedication," said Kevin Porter, President and CEO of Deyta.

Amy Cox, site director of Hospice of the Bluegrass – Cynthiana, credits the staff and volunteers in being named a 2014 Hospice Honors recipient. "Each member of our staff and all our volunteers devote their heart and soul to our patients. They work tirelessly to ensure each patient and family member receives the best care possible," said Cox.

Bramble pruning late this year

The bramble patch is usually cleaned up by now but the cold winter has set us back with a few of our garden chores.

It turns out that this may be a good thing after all: The University of Kentucky has sent out a “blackberry alert” urging gardeners to hold off on pruning blackberry and raspberry until new shoots begin to emerge.

They are expecting more than usual die back due to our cold winter season.

Most brambles are biennial which means they fruit on second-year growth.

Blackberries are easy to deal with, just remove the arching canes that fruited last year and trim up and trellis the remaining new growth from last summer after you see the cane push new growth.

These canes will bear this summer’s fruit and these are the canes that we might see some damage on according to the University of Kentucky.

Biennial raspberries are trickier. Most black and purple raspberry varieties are biennial so they flower and produce fruit on developing canes that are in their second year of growth.

To maintain biennial raspberries, your pruning technique will vary a bit from that used on blackberries and other ever-bearing varieties of raspberries (I’ll get to that shortly).

During the first year, the canes that are not producing fruit should have the tips pruned out when they reach about three feet in height.

These canes will produce fruit the following year and by pruning the tips more lateral, fruit bearing shoots will form along the cane.

Canes without lateral shoots can be cut to about 2 1/2 feet to encourage more branching.

In the second year of a biennial raspberry’s life, after the fruit is harvested, the 2-year-old cane will die back. Go ahead and prune these canes to ground level after harvest is complete.

At the end of the summer, thin the remaining canes, saving about five of the healthiest per plant.

Prune the lateral shoots of these canes to about 8-10 inches in length.

Jeneen Wiche

Red raspberries are treated a little differently: Red raspberries are ever-bearing and produce two crops of fruit in a year, one in mid-summer and a second in fall.

Red ever-bearing raspberries typically have erect-growing canes that help to distinguish them from the black and purple cousins which have arching canes. Most people grow the ever-bearing types.

To maintain two crops from an ever-bearing raspberry, you want to remove the spent canes from the early summer harvest after the harvest is complete.

This allows all of the plant’s energy to focus on producing the second round of growth and fruit for the fall. In fall, after the second harvest, thin the remaining canes that fruited, leaving about five of the healthiest canes for the next season.

Some growers sacrifice the summer harvest of red raspberries so they will have a bumper crop in the fall. If you choose to go this route you only need to prune once. Cut (or mow) the entire plant down to ground now. We take this approach because it helps to control the spread of disease.

Brambles are rather susceptible to fungal and viral diseases so proper pruning is important. It keeps the plants productive, yes, but it also allows for better air circulation and light penetration; and it removes diseased canes on a regular basis.

This is why we grow ever-bearing varieties and cut them all down in the fall of the year. We don’t have an early crop of berries but we have less disease pressure.

Leadership Program. From left, local resident Bonnie Teater, Dr. Lori Garkovich, of the University of Kentucky, and Dr. Gary Palmer, Assistant Director of Agriculture Extension met and discussed demographics of Harrison County at a recent leadership program for outstanding leaders of agriculture in Harrison County. The program was held at Blue Licks State Park on April 1 and 2.

DON'T BE AFRAID

Many people are afraid of reporting child abuse. They think, “I don’t want the person I reported to know.” Keep in mind you can remain anonymous.

Without aware adults, some children might never receive help. Be an advocate for children by knowing the signs of abuse and reporting child abuse. Remember, you are reporting suspicion of child abuse. Even if you aren’t sure, it’s better to let authorities check it out. You might save a child’s life.

RECOGNIZE THE SIGNS

Wounds

- Unexplained bruises and welts.
- Unexplained burns, cigarette burns or “glove” marks on hands and feet
- Rope burns
- Infected burns indicating delay in treatment

Behavioral Indicators

- Behavioral extremes (withdrawal, aggression, regression, depression)
- Inappropriate or excessive fear of parent or caretaker
- Antisocial behavior such as substance abuse, truancy, running away, fear of going home
- Unbelievable or inconsistent explanation for injuries
- Lies unusually still while surveying surroundings (for infants)

Emotional child abuse

Sticks and stones may break my bones but words will never hurt me? Contrary to this old saying, emotional abuse can severely damage a child’s mental health or social development, leaving lifelong psychological scars. Examples of emotional child abuse include:

- Constant belittling, shaming, and humiliating a child.
- Calling names and making negative comparisons to others.
- Telling a child he or she is “no good,” “worthless,” “bad,” or “a mistake.”
- Frequent yelling, threatening, or bullying.
- Ignoring or rejecting a child as punishment, giving him or her the silent treatment.
- Limited physical contact with the child-no hugs, kisses, or other signs of affection.
- Exposing the child to violence or the abuse of others, whether it be the abuse of a parent, a sibling, or even a pet.

Tips for talking to an abused child

Avoid denial and remain calm. A common reaction to news as unpleasant and shocking as child abuse is denial. However, if you display denial to a child, or show shock or disgust at what they are saying, the child may be afraid to continue and will shut down. As hard as it may be, remain as calm and reassuring as you can.

Don’t interrogate. Let the child explain to you in his or her own words what happened, but don’t interrogate the child or ask leading questions. This may confuse and fluster the child and make it harder for them to continue their story.

Reassure the child that they did nothing wrong. It takes a lot for a child to come forward about abuse. Reassure him or her that you take what is said seriously, and that it is not the child’s fault.

Safety comes first. If you feel that your safety or the safety of the child would be threatened if you try to intervene, leave it to the professionals. You may be able to provide more support later after the initial professional intervention.

If you see or suspect child abuse or neglect, call 1-800-422-4453 (1-800-4-A-CHILD) or contact your local law enforcement.
